

What should I expect when working with an Intensive Family Support Worker (FSW)?

We can work with you to help your family to draw on your strengths, get the support you need and help build your confidence and problem-solving skills.

We offer evidenced based parenting support, from trained FSW's.

We can visit children and your family at home, in education settings and in places like Children Centres/Family Hubs.

We work in a planned way, so that your family know what to expect from us and who is doing what. We will usually visit you once a week, but this can vary depending on your needs.

We will work directly with children to understand their wishes and feelings, we will listen to you, seeking to understand family life.

We offer guidance and signposting to help families build their own support network.

What would I need to do?

You will want to make the changes needed to improve family life

You will be willing to meet with us every week (or as arranged) you will want to commit to the joint work.

You will let us know what barriers you need to overcome to reach your goals.

By working together with us you will be able to access other support services and have strategies to overcome challenges in the future.
